

My Hero is Clay Miller

My hero is my cousin Clay Miller because he is a huge inspiration for my scootering and BMX lifestyle. and he takes me to a lot of skate parks, and bringing me to other skate parks with new ramps and different stuff it allows me to progress on my scootering and BMX career. without him I wouldn't have found a passion that I love to more than anything.

He may be my cousin but i feel like he's my big brother cause he teaches me everything I know! So without him I wouldn't have got sponsored or go to a lot of skate parks to progress! Hes hilarious and he rides BMX and he's really good at it and I hope someday I could be as good as him when I get my new bike!

He also hates when ever I do fly out stuff :) so he makes me do them on transitions and stuff!

He is 19 years old and loves to ride BMX. But right at this moment he currently is crippled. What I mean by that is, he has torn his ACL, so unfortunately he can not ride his bike for another 4 or 5 months. At least by then I will have my new bike, so then we can go to Milwaukee to go to Four Seasons Skate Park, which allows all types of riders. Then we can go to Ray's MTB, which stands for Mountain bike. Bikes are allowed in too.

We have been all over Wisconsin to skate parks. The farthest I think we have traveled to go to a skatepark is 3 and a half hours! This trip was to Racine, WI. This year sometime, someday we hope to travel outside of Wisconsin, maybe to Chicago! Also I love going to places where I can meet new friends. Like I have made friends from a year ago from going to the skatepark. It's awesome to see them again when I go to the skateparks.

So I want to thank my cousin Clay for doing all this awesome stuff for me! Also for letting me explore all over Wisconsin to skate parks and other stuff too!
