

Season Elizabeth Bennett, My Personal Hero

Season Elizabeth Bennett is an amazing, beautiful, courageous, and caring person in so many different ways, inside and out. But first, let's get back to the basics

The Bennett Family has always had something special about their family. Season started racing at the age of only eight years old! Her grandfather, Bobby Bennett, started the Bennett Family Legacy. Season was born and raised into the ATV, snowmobiling, and dirt bike life. Season always felt that girls are worth more than many boys think they are, and was determined to prove it! In fact, that is her life goal

Season has two older siblings, Kaylynn and Braison. She also has two younger siblings, Jurnee and Jess. Some things she would like to do before she dies include living in Hawaii, owning her very own animal shelter, race the GNCC quad xc series, and to win at least one race.

Season's favorite memory was when she raced her quad for the first time and realized, then and there, that she wants to do that for the rest of her life. Season has been on TV many times for racing and cheer. She believes that three words to describe her include energetic, bubbly, and sporty. Season started going to college at Globe University as a junior in highschool to be a Vet Tech, hoping that will become her future career.

Season Elizabeth Bennett is my personal hero. Not only because she is an amazing person, but also she believes in herself, and everybody else she meets. She knows that if you try hard enough, you can accomplish anything you want. Season always holds her head up high, no matter what. That is why Season Elizabeth Bennett is my personal hero.
