

My superhero is Eren Jaeger, and this is his backstory. He was born and grew up in a world filled with titans. These titans were giant human eating monsters. He lives in a city called Shingeki no Kyojin with walls about 200 ft high to protect them from the titans. When he was about 12 his dad left him and never came back for some reason. That was the day of the collapse. His dad had left, his sister Mikasa Ackerman, she is his adopted sister that he saved one day from the men who were trying to kill them, she, Eren and his other friend Armin Arlert were enjoying their day when a colossal titan appeared out of thin air and destroyed the the outer wall of the city leaving it open for other titans to come into the city. He had to watch as a titan ate his mother, then escaping with a Garrison regiment member. Over 1000 people died that day and the rest of the population was evacuated back inside the next district of the city (there are three.) He vowed to join the Scout regiment (which goes outside the city and kills titans) and eliminate the titan threat.

His powers that he only uses on very particular occasions, is the ability to transform into a titan. otherwise he has to rely on the swords, the three dimensional maneuver gear, strength and agility and his courage in order to eliminate the titans.

He wears the a leather jacket with the scout regiment symbol on it, pants with the three dimensional maneuvering gear on it and swords.

He is only human so he has no real weakness but his enemies are the titans which he vowed to eliminate and the colossal titan, the biggest titan, and their weakness is a deep cut to the bottom of the back of their necks.

So here's a summary: When he was a little kid he watched his mom get eaten by a titan the vowed to kill every titan, then joins the army in order to train him to join the scout regiment then Armin was going to be killed he saved him at the cost of getting eaten by a titan. Then somehow he comes back as a titan when after being killed as a titan he comes back in a normal form. Now they are trying to figure out what was in his basement of his destroyed house in order to figure out how to beat the titans.