To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Jenni K. and I am a student at Fox West Academy. We are currently in a engineering design project. My teacher has assigned us to look at products we use and see if we can come up with a way to innovate it. I have selected your cell phone, in particular the screen.

I currently own your LG5 cellphone. I have appreciated the new features that are add ons. The phone is a convenient size and easy to bring with anywhere. The on/off button on the back has been great for preventing it from turning on when I don't need it on.

One recommendation I would make is to improve the quality of the screen. It is frustrating to have to cover the screen with a protective layer. It would be great if we could just rely on the screen to no crack. Could there be a protective layer that could be placed underneath the screen to make it stronger?

Sincerely,

Jenni K
