LETTER FROM

Dear Readers,

When I started Future Spectrum I knew that I had wanted to make the best gaming magazine this world has ever seen. Now did I accomplish that, no I didn't. I may not have accomplished my goal, but I am happy with Future Spectrum's outcome. I'm happy with the fact that I worked hard, overcame deadlines, and didn't go crazy during this adventure.

Making Future Spectrum

It was a long and hard project. Over the time as I had more and more stuff to do I admit I became quite stressed out! Sometimes people didn't meet their deadline other times I didn't, other times people made stuff that had no work in it at all... it was just a large group of words. Other times I either forgot to save my work or it didn't save when I had clicked on the save. One of those times was with this letter from the editor. I had it all typed and nice then it didn't save. I ended up typing it with twenty-five minutes left in the project.

Although this project was stressful and frustrating at times it was a moderately good way to end the year. I enjoyed working with other people to make some pretty amazing magazines. I'm looking forward to reading all of them and maybe even seeing my work in some.

A little about me

As you can tell by my topic, I am a so called gamer. Yes I play video games often and I also review them. That doesn't mean I have no life. That's a very big (and annoying) stereo type people made up. That we sit on our gaming consoles all day and do nothing else. I do know that some other people have done that but I don't. I spend a lot of my time doing my many hobbies.

Some of them include flying, different sports, running multiple sites, and being outside doing yard work. Yes, I enjoy yard work, where I live (out in the Wisconsin countryside) it is normally extremely nice outside. I enjoy starting up the rider and cutting the lawn. It gives me a good 3 hours to just ride around and think about things. I also spend another hour weed whacking. We have a 3 acre property that's soon to be 7. Another thing I do outside that would be included in yard work would be gardening. We have a huge 1 acre pumpkin and gourd patch and at the end of the year we sell pumpkins to anyone who stops by. That's where we are getting the extra 3 acres. Another of my hobbies is woodworking. Not only do I do it as a hobby I do it as my job. I make many custom items from pens to bowls for people. I'm hoping to make enough money to pay for my collage. The last of my main hobbies is flying...no I'm not a full-size pilot, but I am a licensed RC pilot. If you didn't know RC stands for remote control. I can fly anything from a small park flyer (term for planes small enough to fly at a public park) to a military drone. As long as it doesn't care a passenger I can fly it. It takes many years to get to the degree of skill I have at the moment. Right now I'm taking a break from jets and going back to prop planes. I'm currently building a 10'6" wingspan P-51 Mustang. This project was started May 2013 and will be done around May 2014. The whole plane is custom built by myself because of course I am a woodworker also.

The people I encountered

Over the time I met (or already knew) many people. Yes at times I may have been mad at them but in the end they got it done. Because of all my employees' work we have put together a great magazine. The magazine is of course fictional but does

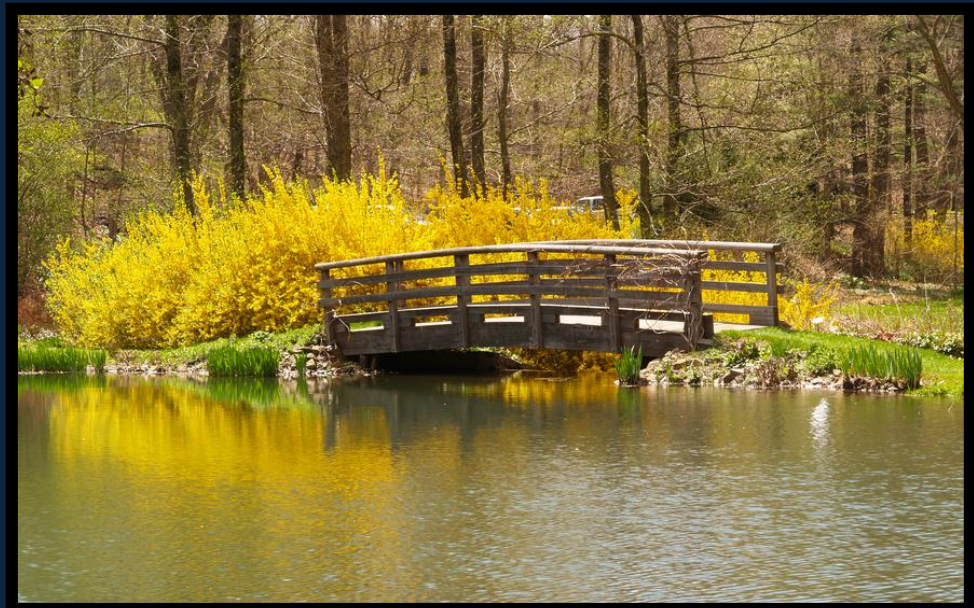

THE EDITOR

Include a few real games. I worked VERY hard on this and I hope you enjoy it. If you all like it there will be more to come and don't worry they won't be fictional.

Sincerely,

Brayden Rupnick

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Brayden

I read your review on MW3 and I thought it sounded like a really cool game. So I decided to go out and buy it. I ended up playing it all day. MW3 is a really fun first person shooter. I would recommend it if you are old enough and your parents say it's okay. But anyway I definitely recommend the game MW3.

Sincerely,
Jessey Derga-Schulz

Dear Editor of Future Spectrum,

In one of your previous issues you wrote a review on the new headset "Gaming V2". Right as I saw that review you did I knew I had to get a pair. So a week passed and I finally saved up the money for the headset so I bought it. Right as I plugged the headset I fell in love. The sound quality was outstanding, it was clear, and you could understand everything anyone was saying. I couldn't stop playing for three days straight. I just couldn't stop playing because I was doing so well because I could hear everything so good. Thank you so much for writing the review and I hope to use more of the gaming supplies that you write reviews on.

Sincerely,
Eugene Allen

THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I read your latest article on Battlefield 3 and I agree that it is the best game of all time and it is amazing and won a lot of awards. It could have had a few minor changes like, different maps that you don't have to pay for. I also enjoyed playing the game and will keep playing it for a long time to come. I have all the expansion packs and hope there are more on the way. I look forward to your next game review. Battlefield 3 all the way!

Assassin's Creed 3 Glitches and Secrets

By: Tucker De Guelle

Did you know it's possible to hang on a cloud, to be able to throw a javelin, and fly? All this in this month's glitches and secrets article!

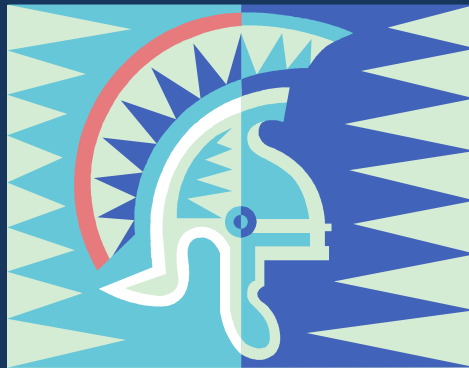

First up is the hanging cloud trick. In the beginning sequence, you have to climb the crow's nest and wait until you see a cloud coming by. You then must jump off the pole in order to hang on the cloud. Timing is everything in order to have this glitch work. If done correctly, you'll be hanging on the cloud! The cloud will be moving and after a while you'll come across another ship, full of redcoats. If you kill them all, you will get a secret achievement!

The next glitch will take place in Boston in any sequence that you play as Haythem. If you go to the north-eastern fort's powder reserve, you will find a javelin to the left of the door. You are able to grab the weapon and fight with it. You can also keep it like hatchet among your various weapons. Also, like a hatchet, you can throw the javelin at an enemy. You can do this trick when you're Connor, but before you blow up the powder reserve.

Have you ever heard of playing as a female assassin? For all the lady gamers, this is trick is a must! All you have to do is hack the game, change Haythem's or Connor's name to yours and change the voice and physical appearance of them. If done successfully, you'll be able to play as a female!

Ever wished you could fly? Now you can with this helpful glitch! However you will need to have redcoats/patriots after you. They need to follow you to a high point. You then need them to shoot at you, making you fall. If all goes right, you should be flying. You'll also be able to fly all over Boston/New York/Frontier. This is one of my favorite glitches.

Overall, Assassin's Creed 3 is a great game full of helpful glitches and secrets. Read next month's edition all about the new game Call of Duty: Black Ops II!

Call of Duty Black Ops 2

By: Caleb Burr

Call of Duty Black Ops 2 had the biggest arrival of any of the Call of Duty's ever. The fast-paced ever improving graphics in the technology field have made Call of Duty Black Ops 2 a realistic treat for the gamer. Call of Duty Black Ops 2 has 720p resolution. This video game is also able to play in 3D provided you get the special 3D glasses. Call of Duty Black Ops 2 is available to play on Xbox 360 and PlayStation 3 video gaming systems. Many gamers find the game very addicting. Included in the graphics is an array of zombie maps with excellent zombie modes. The campaign, which is great, is a favorite part of the game according to those that enjoy playing it.

Among the Call of Duty games that are available it is probably the favorite of most people that have experienced the other Call of Duty video games. The premise of the game is to fight wars. The different wars span a number of years. It includes wars from many years ago as well as "forecasting" future wars from 2020 for example. The games rating is MA for mature due to its graphic nature, swearing and general bloodiness and gore. This makes some parents and proponents strongly dislike this video game and others of the same type. I guess I can understand some of the concerns regarding this type of violence and the affect it may have on some kids especially younger ones but I think if you play the game with the thought in mind that it is a "game" you should not have any ill effects from playing it. When I play a game such as MLB The Show, I certainly don't imagine myself as a multimillion dollar athlete and think I can go out a knock a baseball 480 feet out of the park. I don't think many kids grow up and want to go around killing people, but rather be a MLB star. Some parents even play Call of Duty Black Ops 2 with their kids but most parents are too busy at work.

Almost everybody has a copy of Call of Duty Black Ops 2. There is also a whole bunch more of Call of Duty's people like.

Super Maria Sisters

By: Jacob U

J.Box is new video game company and they just released their first big game "Super Maria Sisters". This game is very similar to the company's first game, "Little Brick Man", with many of the same characters. The princesses you were saving in "Little Brick Man" are now the heroes that save the "Brick Man".

In this twenty level game you must race your way through puzzles and games to save the "Brick Man". The first level of the game begins a long tutorial on the controls of the game which takes away from the games quality. The rest of the game goes along the story line of "Little Brick Man". Racing through level after level chasing the bandit that kid napped "Brick Man". Until you get to the final level which is a "Boss Battle" to the end to save "Brick Man".

The story line of this game has a good idea and plot but it seems to be over used by this company. In every game J.Box makes it is really just the same plot never anything new. If you have played the company's "Little Brick Man" their new game is just a female version of it. They also follow pretty much the same character line with many of the original characters showing back up in this game.

Super Maria Sisters does have some new features also. The game has more than the normal game play modes with online, multiplayer, campaign, quick mission and conquest. The new feature on this game not seen before on any other game is the "freak" mode. In this mode players can began a five to twenty minute long wave of oncoming tortoise. They come in groups of increasing numbers as the time goes on and you must battle to stay alive. Weapons and medical aid fall from above to help aid you in lasting as long as possible. As the waves gain in toughness so does the weapons you receive to defended yourself. The creativity in this game is amazing the characters and weapons are something for the record books. It is clear the creators put a lot of time and effort in to this game.

The creators of this game are Mark Matthews and Johnny Gold. This dynamic duo has worked together on many games in the past creating such master pieces as "The Legend of Brick" and "Golden Goose" and many others. This team was given strict time constraints to finish this game in time for J.Box's hundredth anniversary. This past month the duo announced that they will be making a sequel to "Super Maria Sisters" called "Super Maria Cars". This game will be released in stores on May 6th.

The big pulses of this game are the graphics which makes the characters almost jump off the screen. Unlike "Little Brick Man" the game has exceptional graphic and HD features. This may be the first game I have ever seen that I can see the hairs on the characters head and details on their clothing. With these awesome graphics this game far exceeds others in this category. Making players believe they are in the game is a big plus. I felt as though well playing this game I was running along, not Maria.

I give this game four out of five stars. It may have creativity and good graphics but the story drops the ball. For this game to be the best it can be they need a new story line. As I have said before this story line is over used too many times. It does not fully capture the creativeness of J.Box games in the story line. But the rest of the game truly shows the abilities of J.Box's designers that have now shown what they can do. From now on I will be expecting big things from this company. It has truly shown what J.Box is capable of. This is truly the best game J.Box has made and I strongly encourage every gamer to buy this game. For the release of this game the producer are putting the starting price at $19.99. It will be sold in Floormarts all over and will be release at seven o'clock at night. I will be one of the first people in line for this awesome new game!

Chuck Norris Video Games

By: Logan Westphal

We all know who Chuck Norris is, but, what if I told you that there will be a video game series that will be about Chuck Norris. Yes Chuck Norris. The games are in first person and you wear a special helmet and an optional suit that uses your movements in game. It is a 3D world that takes you in the eyes of Chuck Norris. In matter of fact, Chuck Norris helped do the actions in game. This game is bound to be the number one game of all time, from fighting Chuck Norris-A-Saurus, to killing terrorists with dual Uzis; it will all be here in 2014. This is a based on a true story of Chuck Norris. The first level has the most epic battle in history..

“Have you seen anything around here suspicious, Norris?” asks Sheriff Bart.

“Not quite.” Ranger Norris answers.

“This bandit has mysterious lights that go off at night. Will you check it out Norris? Will you find the source? Will you bring back the bandits, dead or alive?”

“I will sir.”

Ranger Norris departs that night, unaware that he will become the Chuck Norris. Ranger Norris arrives at the bandit camp, expecting an ambush. The ambush never came. All that was there was the vortex like structure in the center of the camp. Ever so carefully, Ranger Norris moves to the structure. The vortex took Ranger Norris into without a seconds warning. A bright light shot out to the sky, and Ranger Norris disappeared.

“Look! There’s hope! It’s Chuck Norris!” Chuck Norris fell out of a sky into a prehistoric village with a villager yelling.

“Yay! You can save us from the infamous Chuck-Norris-A-Saurus!” The villager shouts, with a hint of German.

“The what?” Says the ranger, who is believed to be Chuck Norris.

“The Chuck-Norris-A-Saurus is a vicious dinosaur, that skills rival of Chuck Norris, but you are Chuck Norris! Ja, you can roundhouse kick him to another dimension and we won’t have to deal with his shiße anymore!” The villager says with his deep, German accent.

“I’m not Chuck Norris. I don’t know who he is, and I don’t know what he does.”

“What!” The German villager yells with a v sound. “Oh yeah, just stand on the altar over there. When Chuck Norris travels dimensions, he needs to stand on a place of worship, so he remembers who he is.”

“Whatever you say.” The ranger replies. Ranger Norris walked over to the altar. He stands at the base and closes his eyes. A beam of pure energy and Chi came down on the ranger.

“I see.” The soon to be Chuck Norris says as peaceful as a dove. The beam of light down, and a man with a bullet proof beard with a torn jean jacket and wearing wranglers appeared.

“Hello. I’m Chuck Norris!” The ranger now in his real clothes took out his dual Uzis and tipped his hat for a greeting.

“Vundabar! You can save us from the Chuck-Norris-A-Saurus!”

“Show me the dinosaur.”

“Over the hills on the Dreaded Plateau. Good luck and auf wiedersehen!”

So, the Chuck-Norris-A-Saurus will soon come to downfall. Chuck Norris ran in the pointed direction. Jumping over rocks and running right through trees.

“You should have not have come, Chuck Norris...” A dark, evil voice starts.

“You must be the Chuck-Norris-A-Saurus?” Chuck Norris asks.

“That I am and I know you are Chuck Norris. Why have you come? Most likely to slay me?”

“That I am. Lets fight to the death. The universe most dangerous animal, v.s. the man with the power of gods.”

Chuck Norris and the Chuck-Norris-A-Saurus stare at each other, sizing each other up. The Chuck-Norris-A-Saurus was the first to strike. They both went for a roundhouse kick, yet clashing and making a huge shockwave. The shockwave soon became a portal, and out of that pure roundhouse kick energy, came out Bruce Lee...

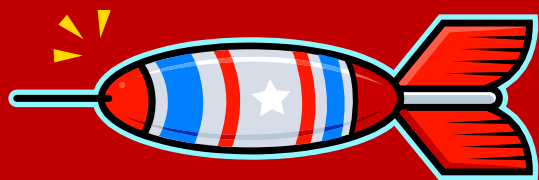

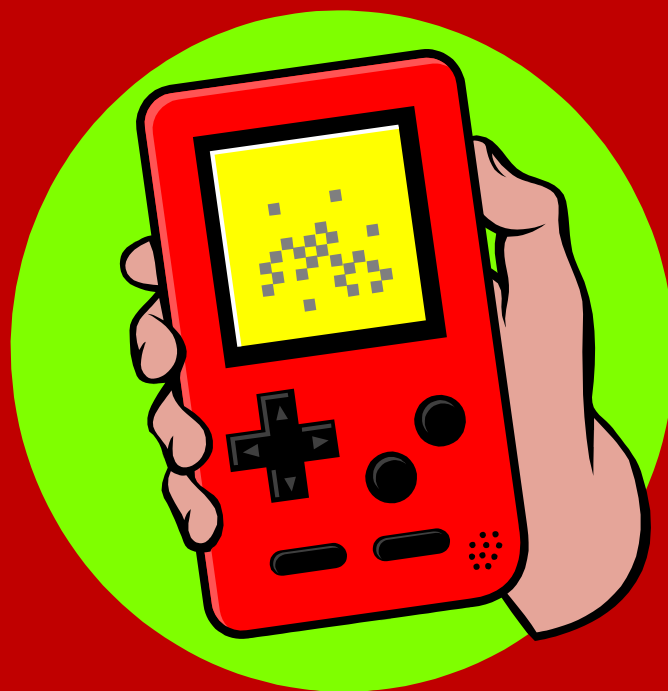

The Lie

By: Jordan Cheslock

In a large city of New York lived a boy name Lucas and his friend Mario him and Mario were very best friends since the 1st grade. They do pretty much everything together play baseball on the same baseball team and hang out every weekend. This week they were going to a baseball game the raven's game. The ravens were playing the captains and Lucas and Mario were cheering for the captain's. Lucas asked his mom if Mario could come and she said yes so he brought Mario. So the next day they both went to the game. In the first inning a player on the ravens hit a home run scoring three points sending in two other players to score. In the second the captains scored two runs losing by one point. Mario and Lucas were behind the outfield hoping that the captains would hit a home run right out to them. In the very last inning the game was tied up and the pitcher from the captains was up to bat. When he hit a home run sending it far out of the diamond winning them the game and Lucas was the lucky one to catch the ball. Along with his friend Mario the next day Mario and Lucas went to a park and played baseball because they were so excited from the previous day they brought their bats and hit a ball back an fourth, trying to hit it over the fence. But they were too small to hit it over the fence. After a couple of hours they both got tired and ended up going home. When Lucas got home his parents asked him how his day was he responded saying. "it was fun and that they spent time at the park trying to hit the baseball over the big fence at the park". The very next day Lucas went to Mario's house to hang out.

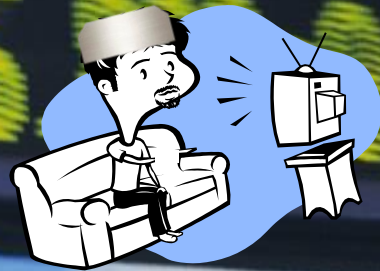

Lucas thought it was a nice day out so he decided to walk to Mario's house on the way he thought and remembered that he was supposed to bring his video game controller so they could play video games. Mario doesn't live to far away so it wasn't that far of a walk back to his house so Lucas quickly ran back and grabbed it and started heading back to Mario's house. When he got there he knocked on his door and Mario answered and he came in and they quickly started to play video games together. They played assassins creed call of duty and lots of other games but there favorite was black ops 2. They eventually got hungry and walked into the kitchen and made some sandwiches and hot dogs and went back and started playing the game. Eventually they got tired and started playing call of duty online Lucas liked on line because he was a lot better than Mario and a lot of other people. After they got done playing Lucas asked Mario if he could borrow his video game and Mario said yes. so Lucas went home with the game and set in on the ground and went in the kitchen only to come back and find the video game broken. Lucas freaked out and didn't know what to do he ran up into his room and kept thinking about what he was going to do over and over. Until finally he got an idea he was going to go to the video game store and steal the same game and give the stolen game back to Mario. So the next day Lucas jumped on his bike and speed to the video game store he walked in with the broken video game and quickly stole the same game. But what Lucas didn't notice was that he dropped a peace of the broken game. Lucas then ran to Mario's house and gave him the game 1 hour later Lucas was surprised by a knock on the door. It was the cops they went to Mario's house and found the stolen game....
